

ENSISHEIM SHOW 2021 cancelled

Hello meteorite aficionados and friends,

As president of the Association of Friends of the Ensisheim Meteorite, given the uncertain development of the pandemic situation (Covid-19 and its variants), I must inform you officially and with great regret that we must cancel again the 2021 edition of our meteorite show and postpone the event to June 2022. This heavy decision was taken conjunctly by the organizing committee and the municipal authorities of the city of Ensisheim.

Our event involves many exhibitors and visitors from all over the world and holds a large audience. The virus and its new variants continue to emerge, disappear, or persist, and to circulate around the world, requiring periods of confinement and deconfinement. This health crisis, as well as that of the global economy, could last for many weeks and months to come. No one can yet predict when the free movement of people to cross borders will be effective, or when the gathering of the public that circulates among the tables will be officially tolerated.

The report of the show in the autumn was also considered, but quickly rejected due to too much uncertainty about the evolution of sanitary conditions. Furthermore, holding the show at an unusual date and in a reduced configuration was not found to be satisfactory.

Presuming this pandemic will be over next year, we invite you to meet in 2022, from June 17 to 19, to resume with confidence our cultural and scientific activities around meteorites.

By ensuring the full support of the entire organizing committee, receive all of you my best regards and above all, stay healthy!

Zelimir

Important note

In early February 2020, I have irreversibly lost my usual email address "uha.fr" so that I could not read any of your messages you may have sent since, this explaining my long silence. Should you need to contact me for questions or comments, please use my new current email address:

zelimir.gabelica@gmail.com

This will also allow me to reconstruct the entire list of email addresses of show exhibitors and participants regarding the future show contacts.

Thank you!